Wait!

Do not choose investigators or assemble investigator decks yet. First, read the prologue on page 3. You will be instructed to choose investigators and assemble investigator decks once the prologue is complete.

The Waking World Is Only One Reality

“In light slumber he descended the seventy steps to the cavern of flame and talked of this design to the bearded priests Nasht and Kaman-Tah. And the priests shook their psinet-bearing heads and vowed it would be the death of his soul.”

- H. P. Lovecraft, The Dream-Quest of Unknown Kadath

The Dream-Eaters consists of two campaigns for Arkham Horror: The Card Game. The Dream-Eaters deluxe expansion contains one scenario for each of these campaigns: “Beyond the Gates of Sleep” and “Waking Nightmare.” Each of these scenarios can be played on its own or combined with three of the six Mythos Packs in The Dream-Eaters cycle to form a larger four-part campaign. Alternatively, these scenarios can be combined with all six of the Mythos Packs in The Dream-Eaters cycle to form a cohesive eight-part campaign.

Additional Rules and Clarifications

Alert

Each time an investigator fails a skill test while attempting to evade an enemy with the alert keyword, after applying all results for that skill test, that enemy performs an attack against the evading investigator. An enemy does not exhaust after performing an alert attack. This attack occurs whether the enemy is engaged with the evading investigator or not.

Myriad

An investigator may include up to three copies of a player card with the myriad keyword in their deck (by title), instead of the normal limit of two copies. Additionally, when you purchase a myriad card for your deck, you may purchase up to two additional copies of that card (at the same level) at no experience cost.

Story Cards

Story cards serve as an avenue for additional narrative and typically appear as the reverse side of another scenario card. When you are instructed to resolve a story card, simply read its story text and resolve its game text.
Bonded

Cards with the bonded keyword are linked to another player card. They have no level and therefore are not available as deckbuilding options. Instead, the card to which they are bonded (which is listed in parentheses next to this keyword) brings the bonded card into the game.

If your deck contains a card that summons one or more bonded cards, those bonded cards are set aside at the start of each game.

If a weakness with the bonded keyword is added to an investigator’s deck, hand, threat area, or play area, it does not remain a part of that investigator’s deck for the rest of the campaign (unlike other weaknesses). It starts each game set aside with that investigator’s other bonded cards.

For example: Hope, Zeal, and Augur all have the “bonded (Miss Doyle)” keyword. This means each of those cards is bonded to the card Miss Doyle. Hope, Zeal, and Augur each have no level and are therefore not available as options to include when building your deck. However, Miss Doyle summons each of these cards when she is played. Therefore, a player with Miss Doyle in their deck should set aside Hope, Zeal, and Augur at the start of each game. These cards are not part of that investigator’s deck and do not count towards their deck size.

Swarming X

An enemy with the swarming X keyword is actually a pack of enemies operating in unison. After you put an enemy with the swarming X keyword into play, place the top X cards of your deck facedown underneath the enemy as swarm cards, without looking at them. The enemy they are underneath is called the “host enemy.” Some scenario card effects may also instruct a player to add swarm cards to an enemy. These cards are not part of that investigator’s deck and do not count towards their deck size.

Æ Each swarm card can be atacked or dealt damage separately, but the host enemy cannot be defeated while it still has swarm cards underneath it. When a swarm card is defeated, any excess damage may be dealt to another swarm card underneath the same host enemy or to the host enemy itself. (For example, Tony Morgan uses a .41 Derringer to attack a Stealthy Zoog with 2 swarm cards. The first point of damage deals 1 of the 2 swarm cards, so the excess point of damage may be dealt to another swarm card, defeating it as well.)

Æ Anytime a swarm card leaves play, place it on the bottom of its owner’s deck. If you are unsure of the owner of the swarm card, you may look at it to determine its owner.

Æ The host enemy and all of its swarm cards move, engage, and exhaust as a single entity. (For example, if a host enemy or any of its swarm cards are evaded, all of them exhaust and become disengaged.)

New Weaknesses

This expansion contains four new basic weaknesses—Self-Centered, Narcolepsy, Kleptomania, and Your Worst Nightmare—with the text “Multiplayer only.” These weaknesses are only added to the pool of available basic weaknesses when there is more than one investigator in the game.

Hidden

An encounter card or weakness with the hidden keyword has a revelation ability that secretly adds that card to your hand. This should be done without revealing that card or its text to the other investigators.

Æ While a hidden treachery is in your hand, treat it as if it were in your threat area. Its constant abilities are active, and abilities on it can be triggered, but only by you.

Æ While a hidden enemy is in your hand, it is not considered to be engaged with you or in your threat area, and it does not atack unless otherwise specified. However, its constant abilities are active, and abilities on it can be triggered, but only by you.

Æ A hidden card counts toward your hand size, but it cannot be discarded from your hand by any means except those described on the card. When discarded, a hidden card is placed in its appropriate discard pile.

For the best experience, players are encouraged to stay “in character” and not share information about hidden cards in their hand.
Expansion Icon
The cards in The Dream-Eaters cycle can be identified by this symbol before each card’s collector number:

Prologue

Friday, February 13th, 1925

Something odd was happening in Arkham, Massachusetts. Typically, this would not be a surprise to the residents of the dreary New England town. Indeed, Arkham has always been well-known for its strange—some would say supernatural—occurrences. The nature of this particular circumstance, however, was anything but typical.

It all began in the latest issue of Tales from Nevermore. A writer by the name of Virgil Gray described a journey he had taken in his dreams—a journey he claimed was not a work of fiction on his part. He wrote of a long, spiraling staircase, an unbearably hot pillar of sentient fire, a tree that came from the moon, and a curious talking cat…among other things equally difficult to believe. But it wasn’t this extraordinary tale that first drew your attention. Soon after Virgil’s tale was published, Tales from Nevermore began to receive and publish letter after letter from those who had read Virgil’s story and claimed to have experienced the same exact dream. Before long, the Arkham Advertiser picked up the story, and news of this strange phenomenon reached the ears of experts.

Virgil Gray was convinced to undergo therapy at the local asylum, and many more who shared in the writer’s psychosis were committed as well. The prevailing theory among academics is that Virgil’s dream felt so real that he could not separate fact from fiction, and his writings spread his delusions to others like a form of shared hysteria. You remain unconvinced. After all, there is much that is not known about the simple act of dreaming. Medical experts have wildly differing theories on the state of one’s brain during sleep. Recently, experts like Sigmund Freud have proposed that dreams are manifestations of one’s subconscious desires, fears, or obsessions. Fortune tellers, for their part, have long believed that dreams can be sifted and interpreted in order to tell the dreamer’s past or future. But if these theories are true, how could multiple parties—all from very different walks of life—have the same shared experiences in their dreams? What if our modern understanding of sleep is all wrong? What if there really is a place our consciousness travels to when we sleep—a land of dreams that exists beyond our waking world?

You and your companions have gathered together to get to the bottom of this strange phenomenon. If others in town can travel to another world in their dreams, perhaps you can, too. You’ve re-created the circumstances of Virgil’s journey perfectly. If all goes well, half of you will take the trip to this “dreamland” and back. The rest will stay in the waking world, studying your companions’ sleep patterns to ensure nothing goes wrong...

The cycle consists of two separate four-part campaigns—A and B. Campaign A is called The Dream-Quest and consists of scenarios 1–A, 2–A, 3–A, and 4–A. This campaign tells the story of those investigators who journey into the world of dreams.

Campaign B is called The Web of Dreams and consists of scenarios 1–B, 2–B, 3–B, and 4–B. This campaign tells the story of those investigators who stay behind in the waking world.

The scenarios in this cycle can be played in one of three ways: as one of the above four-part campaigns (either A or B), or as an interconnected eight-part campaign (both A and B) in which a single group of 1–4 players takes control of two separate groups of investigators and alternates between them.

Æ If you are playing The Dream-Quest as a four-part campaign:

= Proceed to Campaign A Setup on page 4. After each scenario, proceed to the next numbered A scenario, as instructed by the scenario’s resolution. Do not play the four B scenarios. This campaign is a self-contained experience.

Æ If you are playing The Web of Dreams as a four-part campaign:

= Proceed to Campaign B Setup on page 9. After each scenario, proceed to the next numbered B scenario, as instructed by the scenario’s resolution. Do not play the four A scenarios. This campaign is a self-contained experience.

Æ If you are playing The Dream-Eaters as an eight-part campaign:

= Each player should build a different investigator deck for each campaign, choosing one of their investigators to be part of Campaign A and one to be part of Campaign B. (For added chaos, the players may also choose randomly.)
Playing The Dream-Eaters with Two Groups

While this is not the primary mode of play, it is possible to play The Dream-Eaters campaign with two separate groups of 1–4 players each, one group playing Campaign A and the other playing Campaign B. In this format, use the rules for setting up The Dream-Eaters as an interconnected eight-part campaign, with the following exceptions:

Æ After each scenario, each group must wait for the other group to finish the scenario with the same number before moving on to the next scenario. Then, both groups proceed to the next numbered scenario in their campaign, or first to an interlude, if instructed to do so. (For example, once group A finishes Scenario 1–A, they must wait for the other group to finish Scenario 1–B before they can move on.)

Æ Interludes should be read by both groups, in unison, with each group making the decisions relevant to their particular campaign.

Æ For the best experience, do not tell the other group what has transpired in your campaign— that way, the groups can switch campaigns af erward and experience the other perspective of the story.

Campaign A Setup

To set up The Dream-Quest campaign, perform the following steps in order.

1. Choose investigator(s).
2. Each player assembles their investigator deck.
3. Choose difficulty level.
4. Assemble the campaign chaos bag.
   - Easy (I want to experience the story):
     +1, +1, 0, 0, -1, -1, -2, -2, , , , ,
   - Standard (I want a challenge):
     +1, 0, 0, -1, -1, -2, -2, -3, -4, , , , ,
   - Hard (I want a true nightmare):
     0, 0, -1, -1, -2, -2, -3, -3, -4, -5, , , , ,
   - Expert (I want Arkham Horror):
     0, -1, -1, -2, -2, -3, -4, -4, -5, -6, -8, , , , ,

You are now ready to begin at Scenario 1–A: Beyond the Gates of Sleep.

Note that each campaign has its own separate chaos bag, as described in each campaign’s setup instructions. However, there is no need to build both chaos bags simultaneously. Use the “Chaos Bag” section of each Campaign Log to record the current contents of each chaos bag so you may switch between them easily.

From there, you can proceed to either Scenario 1–A: Beyond the Gates of Sleep on page 5, or Scenario 1–B: Waking Nightmare on page 10 (your choice). After each scenario, follow the resolution’s instructions to determine when to alternate between the two groups. Decisions made by one group may sometimes affect the other group.
Scenario I-A: Beyond the Gates of Sleep

In player order, each investigator chooses and reads aloud one of the dream entries below that applies to that investigator. “N eutral” dreams may be chosen by any investigator. Each investigator must choose a different dream, if able. Then, proceed to Setup.

Æ Guardian ( ) dream: You circle a sullen hill shrouded in darkness and steeped in fog that seems to swallow all sound. You don’t know what rests within the hill, but it feels older than this world, and it seems like it is watching you. You dare not turn to face the barrow, yet you know you cannot leave it, so instead you endlessly patrol it. In the surrounding hedgerows, you catch glimpses of twisted shadows darting to and fro, but whenever you turn your torch upon them, they vanish. You begin to run but are ozen by a loud knock from behind you. When you turn, the fog parts, and you finally see the base of the hill, where a heavy door of weathered slate calls to you.

= Search your deck for a card and play it (paying its cost).

Æ Seeker ( ) dream: You are fleeing through a dark, cramped hall of vine-covered wood. Something inexplicable chases you through the murk. You are too terrified to turn and look upon your pursuer, but nonetheless you now that if it catches you, it will mean the end of your life. It will pierce your heart, drain your blood, and devour your insides. It is this thought that drives you onward, faster than you have ever run before. You cannot let it reach you. You cannot let it feed. Suddenly, you spot your way out: a sturdy wooden door surrounded by a wall of vines.

= Search your deck for a card and play it (paying its cost).

Æ Criminal dream: The blare of sirens echoes through the streets behind you. They’re gaining on you. They have always been hot on your heels, and you were always one step ahead… until now. You run down an alleyway, and a bright-red glare follows you. They’re going to catch you. They’ll lock you in a cage and throw away the key. Your freedom, your lifestyle, everything you are, everything you love: they’ll take it all away. And why? Just because you wouldn’t play by their rules? When have they ever gotten everything right? You round a corner just as the bulls are about to catch you up and spot the entrance into a brick building.

= Search your deck for a Criminal or Illicit card and play it (paying its cost).

Æ Drifter dream: You meander through a field of owers, a warm spring breeze nudging your steps forward. A train track divides the field, and as you meet its parallel lines, the roaring clatter of steam and iron lumbers toward you. As the train passes by, you grab onto a ladder hanging from one of its many rusted and weather-beaten cars. Given the appearance of the exterior, the train’s interior is full of unexpected luxury and affluence: Persian rugs hang as decoration, marble staircases wind to dizzying heights, and a crystal chandelier speckles the room with prismatic brilliance. Under the chandelier sits an ornate wooden door carved into the trunk of a great redwood.

= You may replace a basic weakness in your deck with a different random basic weakness. If you do, suffer 1 trauma of your choice.
Æ Hunter dream: You stalk your prey through a decrepit house, its halls smelling of mold and dust. The creature you hunt is an abomination from an unnatural world. It threatens humanity's very existence with its presence. You catch its uncanny shape entering one of the doorways upstairs. It cannot escape now—it is yours. But when you enter its den, you find only a dirty, cracked mirror and your own tired and troubled face reflected in the glass. Where could the aberration have gone? You are sure this is where it retreated to, and yet... you turn back to the entrance and are surprised to see a door where there was none before.

Æ Medic or Assistant dream: You stand in front of a closed casket. Mourners in black clothing stand in a line at your side, waiting for you to say your last words. Tearfully, you place a hand on the casket. The hard, cold wood feels dead under your palm. They depend on you. And in their time of uttermost need, you failed them. All of this—the cold casket, the mourning friends and family—it is all because of you. But when you open the casket, there is no body inside: only a long stone passageway leading deep underground. Suddenly, one of the mourners pushes you forward, and you fall over the edge of the casket and down into the pit below, landing painfully on your side. As you rise to your feet, you find your only exit: a stone archway leading somewhere else entirely...

Æ Miskatonic or Scholar dream: You are in an old, forgotten library, surrounded by the knowledge of the ancients. Hundreds of thousands of tomes line the shelves around you, ascending into an empty void above. The dim halls smell of musty pages and melting wax. Taking one of the thick tomes from a nearby shelf, you begin to read. Although you cannot seem to read any of the words, you are utterly absorbed by the tale the pages weave. Your surroundings fade into triviality as time passes. Nothing matters but the shapes of the crimson ink; all else is meaningless in the face of such stark truths. All around you, the library burns to its foundations. Just as the flames reach you, a door out of the library calls to you. Somewhere, it stands unburned among the flames.

Æ Veteran dream: You are in a muddy, soggy trench. All around you, the thunderous din of war rages on and on, never ending. Dead litter the trenches: friends and comrades-in-arms who lost their lives over nothing, in a land far from home. You peer over the rim of the trench and into no-man's-land, a barren waste of broken, charred countryside where death is certain. And there, you see it: a lone wooden door standing among the rubble and dirt. You know it is your only way out.
Set up

Æ Gather all cards from the following encounter sets: Beyond the Gates of Sleep, Agents of Nyarlathotep, Zoogs, Dreamer’s Curse, Dreamlands, and Chilling Cold. These sets are indicated by the following icons:

Æ Put the Seventy Steps (Of Lighter Slumber) and The Cavern of Flame into play. Each investigator begins at the Seventy Steps (Of Lighter Slumber).

Æ Set the following cards aside, out of play: Randolph Carter (Expert Dreamer), the Laboring Gug enemy, the two double-sided enemy cards (Nasht and Kaman-Thah), and each of the remaining locations.

Note: Nasht and Kaman-Thah are double-sided and have story cards on their other side. For the best experience, do not look at the other side unless an effect instructs you to do so.

Æ This scenario does not begin with an encounter deck in play. Set all of the remaining encounter cards aside, in a single pile. They will be shuffled together at a later time to form the encounter deck. (See “Steps of Slumber,” below.)

Steps of Slumber

At the start of this scenario, there is no encounter deck. This is means that the investigators cannot use abilities that interact with the encounter deck in any way. (For example, effects such as those that search the encounter deck, draw cards from the encounter deck, or look at cards in the encounter deck all fail.)

Additionally, act 1a has the text: “Do not draw cards from the encounter deck during the mythos phase.”

At a certain point in the scenario, the investigators will be instructed to form the encounter deck, and this text will no longer be active. From that point onward, the investigators can interact with the encounter deck as normal.

If no resolution was reached because each investigator was defeated: You are nudged into consciousness by an old, scarred cat. “Hey. You all right, human?”

I’m dreaming, you remember, and suddenly the talking cat doesn’t seem quite as weird. Exhausted, you manage to rise to your feet, brushing off the dirt caked on your clothing. “You’re lucky you weren’t harmed before we arrived,” a human voice calls out to you. It belongs to a blond-haired man in a brown traveling coat, who leans against a nearby tree. “These woods are not forgiving to the faint of heart.” The scarred cat walks to the man’s side, and the man leans over to pet its back.

You ask the man where you are and how he came to this place, but he cuts you off. “I will explain in due time. For now, we must follow the path to the town of Ulthar. It is a safe place, relatively speaking. There you may recover from your ordeals.” He turns to the cat and utters a word in an odd language—a password of sorts, you suspect—but the cat simply wanders toward a hedge, where you see several other cats banded together. “Do it yourself,” it replies.

“Don’t mind the cats,” the man says to you quietly as the cats depart. “They are useful allies, but also independent creatures with no need for you or me. When we reach Ulthar, you may get the chance to meet others of their kind. But first things first.” Together, you leave the eaves of the enchanted forest behind.

Æ In your Campaign Log, record the investigators were saved by Randolph Carter.

Æ Any one investigator may choose to add Randolph Carter (Expert Dreamer) (The Dream-Eaters card #59) to their deck. This card does not count toward that investigator’s deck size.

Æ Each investigator earns experience equal to the Victory X value of each card in the victory display.

Æ If you are playing The Dream-Quest as a four-part campaign, proceed to Interlude I: The Black Cat.
Resolution 1: The creatures chitter among themselves, and after a moment, a dozen of them retreat in the direction of the great tree beyond the beaten path. They return shortly afterward carrying a variety of grouse, quail, and pheasants in their mouths. You’re almost certain now that you are going crazy. And yet, the spectacle continues. The creatures timidly drop their “tribute” of birds in front of the cats and quietly depart. “My apologies on behalf of the Zoogs,” the man says as he approaches. “They are curious creatures, and not usually so… agitated. It is good that we showed up when we did.” The leader of the cats jumps on a tree stump and adds, “Yes, yes. The vile Zoogs have done their part, now let’s do ours and leave this forsaken place. What say ye?”

You cannot contain your excitement. Zoogs, talking cats—everything you have read about is real. You begin to ask the man more about this world, but he cuts you off. “I will explain in due time. For now, we must follow the path to the town of Ulthar. It is a safe place, relatively speaking. There you may recover from your travels.” He returns to the old, scarred cat and utters a word in an odd language—a password of sorts, you suspect—and the cat replies with a quick nod. The rest of the cats in mouth, take a protective circular formation around you, and together you escape from the eaves of the enchanted forest.

In your Campaign Log, record the cats collected their tribute from the Zoogs.

Any one investigator may choose to add Randolph Carter (Expert Dreamer) (The Dream-Eaters card #59) to their deck. This card does not count toward that investigator’s deck size.

Each investigator earns experience equal to the Victory X value of each card in the victory display.
You describe the author Virgil Gray and ask the Zoogs if they have seen a man fitting that description pass through these woods. You add that he would have walked this path many times. A hush falls over the Zoogs, and some of them immediately depart into the deep foliage. “We have met this human,” one of the elders replies with a flutter just louder than a whisper. “He is kind but foolish. Take the road to Ulthar. You may meet him.” Then it adds with a low growl: “…but beware the cat that follows him. All cats are liars, but the black cat especially.” You thank the ancient Zoog for its wisdom and depart, led by the blond man and his feline escort. The cats eye you suspiciously after your discussion with the Zoogs. The man breaks the tension. “If you are heading to Ulthar to find this friend of yours, allow me to guide you there. It is a safe place, relatively speaking. There you may recover from your travels.”

Zoogs. Talking cats. This can’t all be a figment of your imagination. Somehow, you can see a layer of truth beneath all of this absurdity. For better or for worse, the Zoog council has confirmed the reality of your situation: the Dreamlands are real, and Virgil Gray is here.

AE In your Campaign Log, record the investigators parleyed with the Zoogs.

AE Any one investigator may choose to add Randolph Carter (Expert Dreamer) (The Dream-Eaters card #59) to their deck. This card does not count toward that investigator’s deck size.

AE Each investigator earns experience equal to the Victory X value of each card in the victory display.

AE If you are playing The Dream-Quest as a four-part campaign, proceed to Interlude I: The Black Cat.

AE If you are playing The Dream-Quest and The Web of Dreams as an interconnected eight-part campaign...

= ... and you have not yet played Scenario 1-B: Waking Nightmare, proceed to that scenario.

= ... and you have already played Scenario 1-B: Waking Nightmare, proceed instead to Interlude I: The Black Cat.

---

Campaign B Set up

To set up The Web of Dreams campaign, perform the following steps in order.

1. Choose investigator(s).
2. Each player assembles their investigator deck.
3. Choose difficulty level.
4. Assemble the campaign chaos bag.

   = Easy (I want to experience the story):
     +1, +1, 0, 0, -1, -1, -2, -2, , , , , , , , , , ,

   = Standard (I want a challenge):
     +1, 0, 0, -1, -1, -2, -2, -3, -4, , , , , , , , , , ,

   = Hard (I want a true nightmare):
     0, 0, 0, -1, -1, -2, -2, -3, -3, -4, -5, , , , , , , , , , ,

   = Expert (I want Arkham Horror):
     0, -1, -1, -2, -2, -3, -3, -4, -4, -5, -6, -8, , , , , , , , , , ,

You are now ready to begin at Scenario 1-B: Waking Nightmare.
Scenario I-B: Waking Nightmare

Intro 1: It has been more than twenty-four hours since your companions fell asleep. Over the course of the past day, your curiosity has slowly turned to concern and then dread. The problems began when one of your friends started to toss and turn violently in their sleep. You snapped to attention and tried to shake them awake, but it was to no avail. You tried everything. Physical contact was no use, and water did nothing but soak their clothes and bed sheetlessly. Even opening their eyelids did not wake them, and in the process, you noticed that their pupils had fully dilated and their eyes were glazed over with a milky-white fog.

You have no idea what this could mean for your friends. Have they been transported to the land Virgil Gray described in his writings? Or has something more sinister taken root within their minds and bodies? Just to be safe, you decide to take your companions to St. Mary’s Hospital. If something ails them physically, perhaps the doctors there can discern what is wrong. Otherwise, you will simply have to watch over them and hope that they return safely to the waking world.

St. Mary’s is the only hospital in the town of Arkham, and it is a fixture of its Uptown neighborhood. You explain the situation to Nurse Greenberg, the head nurse at the hospital, who instructs several other nurses to carry your companions into the emergency ward on stretchers. She tells you with a warm, friendly smile that your friends will be examined by Doctor Maheswaran, but other than that, you are left entirely in the dark.

Hours pass. You hear nothing about the status of your companions. You still have not met with Doctor Maheswaran, and you’re starting to grow impatient. You feel something crawling along your arm, and you instinctively brush it away, then wonder if it was an insect or a fragment of your imagination. You begin to question whether bringing your friends here was the right choice after all. Eventually, you decide to take matters into your own hands.

It is late at night, and the receptionist who instructed you to stay in the waiting room is nowhere to be seen. In fact, there are eerily few people roaming the halls of the hospital. With nobody to stop you, you sneak off into the emergency ward to find your friends. It does not take long for you to find them. Your companions lie asleep on clean, white cots, their sleep anything but peaceful. They are pale faced and sweaty. One of them tosses and turns in their sleep, their brow furrowed with pain or worry.

Doctor Maheswaran does not seem surprised by your intrusion. “Shivani Maheswaran,” she introduces herself coldly, without looking up from her clipboard. “You’re the ones who brought them in, right? Before you ask: no, I’ve never seen anything like this before in my life,” she says with a hint of dry impatience. You demand that she tell you everything she knows about their condition and not give you the runaround. With a sigh, she puts her clipboard down and addresses you frankly. “Listen, I may be new to Arkham, but I have seen enough inexplicable maladies in this town to fill entire careers in medicine. I understand why you are concerned. Your friends…” She struggles to find the right words. “They are not simply asleep. It is as if they are hovering somewhere between sleep and unconsciousness, or even death. They are not aware of anything happening around them but appear to be reacting to some kind of internal stimuli.”

Without hesitation, you ask if they are dreaming. “Dreaming?” Doctor Maheswaran replies. “It is unlikely, though it might account for their mannerisms. Honestly—and I know this is not exactly reassuring—none of this makes any sense to me, medically speaking.”

Just then, you see a large, hairy spider crawling on the chest of one of your friends. “Well, that is odd.” Doctor Maheswaran brushes the spider off, and several more emerge from the sheets to take its place. You and the doctor both take several steps back out of pure instinct. You hear heavy footsteps in the hallway outside the emergency ward, and then the lights begin to flicker. “Okay… that is more than simply odd. What in the world is going on out there?” Doctor Maheswaran asks anxiously.

For just a moment, you think you hear one of your sleeping companions whisper something. Are they indeed dreaming? And if so, what does their condition have to do with these strange events?

AE The investigators must decide (choose one):

  = Convince Doctor Maheswaran to stay with the patients and keep them safe while you investigate. Proceed to Intro 2.

  = Convince Doctor Maheswaran to come with you while you investigate, for her safety and yours. Proceed to Intro 3.

Intro 2: “Yes, I suppose that makes sense. There has been no change in their condition for the past few hours, anyway.” Doctor Maheswaran’s gaze shifts nervously to and fro, searching for more spiders. “Also, I’d very much like to get out of this room now, so… I lead the way,” she adds. You nod and venture back into the hospital’s waiting room.

AE Record in your Campaign Log Dr. Maheswaran joined the investigation.

Skip to Setup.
Intro 3: “Yes, of course. Their safety is paramount. But do come back and tell me what is going on, please.” She shivers. “I really hate this place after dark...” You nod and venture back into the hospital’s waiting room.

Æ Record in your Campaign Log Dr. Maheswaran stayed with her patients.

Proceed to Setup.

Setup

Æ Gather all cards from the following encounter sets: Waking Nightmares, Merging Realities, Whisper of Hypnos, Locked Doors, and Striking Fear. These sets are indicated by the following icons:

Æ Set aside each of the following encounter sets: Agents of Atlach-Nacha and Spiders. These sets are indicated by the following icons:

Æ Check Campaign Log.

Æ If Dr. Maheswaran joined the investigation, put Dr. Shivani Maheswaran into play, under the lead investigator’s control.

Æ If Dr. Maheswaran stayed with her patients, set Dr. Shivani Maheswaran aside, out of play.

Æ Set each of the remaining locations aside, out of play.

Æ Set the following cards aside, out of play: Randolph Carter (Chained to the Waking World), all 3 of the Outbreak treacheries, and both of the Corrupted Orderly enemies.

Æ Set the double-sided The Infestation Begins story card aside, out of play. This story card has a different scenario reference card on its other side and will enter play during the natural course of the scenario.

Æ Shuffle each of the remaining encounter cards together to form the encounter deck.
If no resolution was reached, and at least one investigator resigned: With panic overtaking your mind, you run through the main exit of St. Mary’s Hospital, putting as much distance as you can between you and this accursed infestation. The moment you get home, you collapse from exhaustion.

The next day, you wake and check the morning papers, expecting to see tales of chaos at St. Mary’s and of an infestation of arachnids. However, there is no news regarding the hospital at all. Did last night’s events occur too late for the Arkham Advertiser to report on them? Was it all just a bad dream? You put on your coat and head back to the hospital to confirm that what you saw last night was real.

When you arrive at St. Mary’s, you expect to see the building—or perhaps all of Uptown—covered in spiderwebs. But instead, to your surprise, it is perfectly clean. Patients, nurses, and doctors walk through its halls like none of last night’s events transpired. Before you can find your sleeping companions, however, a blond-haired man with heavy bags under his eyes approaches you and places a hand on your shoulder.

“Good morning. We should talk.”

Æ For each location that was infested when the game ended, record 1 tally mark next to “Steps of the Bridge” in your Campaign Log.

Æ In your Campaign Log, record Dr. Maheswaran is alive.

Æ Your companions’ condition has worsened. If you are playing The Web of Dreams and The Dream-Quest as an interconnected eight-part campaign, record in Campaign A’s Campaign Log the dreamers grow weaker.

Æ In your Campaign Log, record Randolph escaped the hospital with the investigators. Any one investigator may choose to add Randolph Carter (Chained to the Waking World) (The Dream-Eaters card #79) to their deck. This card does not count toward that investigator’s deck size.

Æ Skip to Resolution 5.
Resolution 2: Before you depart from the hospital, you search high and low for Doctor Maheswaran, but she is nowhere to be found. You head back to the emergency ward to check on your companions and find that they are still unconscious. In fact, their condition seems to have grown worse. Their foreheads are covered in sweat, and blood drips from their closed eyes. One of them is whispering something in their sleep, a repeated phrase in a language you cannot understand. As you leave, you swear to your sleeping friends that you will get to the bottom of this and save them.

Æ In your Campaign Log, record Dr. Maheswaran is missing. Perhaps you could have saved her. The lead investigator suffers 1 mental trauma.

Æ Your companions’ condition has worsened. If you are playing The Web of Dreams and The Dream-Quest as an interconnected eight-part campaign, record in Campaign A’s Campaign Log the dreamers grow weaker.

Æ In your Campaign Log, record Randolph escaped the hospital with the investigators. Any one investigator may choose to add Randolph Carter (Chained to the Waking World) (The Dream-Eaters card #79) to their deck. This card does not count toward that investigator’s deck size.

Æ Skip to Resolution 5.

Resolution 3: Before you depart from the hospital, you go back to the emergency ward to check on Doctor Maheswaran. The door to the room where your companions are staying is sealed shut, so you knock on the door and ask if she is there. On the other side, you hear furniture being shifted aside and knocked over. An exhausted Shivani Maheswaran cracks open the door and peers at you with bloodshot eyes. “Oh, thank goodness it is you.” She lets you in and collapses onto a nearby chair. “Those... things tried to get into the room. I had to barricade myself inside to stop them.” You inform her that the danger has passed and thank her for watching over your friends. “I’ll continue to keep an eye on them,” she says. “Just please, tell me there are no more spiders out there, or I’m taking the first train out of this town.” As you leave, you swear to your sleeping friends that you will get to the bottom of this and save them.

Æ In your Campaign Log, record Dr. Maheswaran is alive.

Æ In your Campaign Log, record Randolph escaped the hospital with the investigators. Any one investigator may choose to add Randolph Carter (Chained to the Waking World) (The Dream-Eaters card #79) to their deck. This card does not count toward that investigator’s deck size.

Æ Skip to Resolution 5.
Resolution 4: With panic overtaking your mind and no idea how you can escape, you flee anywhere your feet will take you. Hideous monsters begin to close in around you, and you envision yourself wrapped in webs, waiting to be a spider’s meal. Eventually you come to a dead end: a room covered from floor to ceiling in thick, sticky webs. The skittering of spider legs follows close behind, and you realize you have no hope to escape unless there is a path behind the webs. There is no choice remaining for you. You run headlong into the webs, ripping and tearing at them with the ferocity of a cornered animal. It is tough work, but eventually you see a light behind the webs—perhaps an escape route.

Once you cross through the webs, you are no longer in the dark, sterile halls of St. Mary’s, but in a narrow, web-covered cavern. You dare not tarry or go back the way you came, so you run through the dark, cramped cave with no idea where it might lead. Glancing through the cobwebs to your left and right, you see not just hard rock, but the glimmering of lights, like a sea of stars looming beyond the silken threads. Eventually, you emerge from another wall of webs, only to find yourself in an alleyway in Arkham’s Merchant District, near the Miskatonic River. You have neither the time nor the desire to analyze this, instead deciding to put as much distance as you can between you and the hospital. The moment you get home, you collapse from exhaustion.

The next day, you wake and check the morning papers, expecting to see tales of chaos at St. Mary’s and of an infestation of arachnids. However, there is no news regarding the hospital at all. Did last night’s events occur too late for the Arkham Advertiser to report on them? Was it all just a bad dream? You put on your coat and head back to the hospital to confirm that what you saw last night was real.

When you arrive at St. Mary’s, you expect to see the building—or perhaps all of Uptown—covered in spiderwebs. Instead, to your surprise, it is perfectly clean. Patients, nurses, and doctors walk through its halls like none of last night’s events transpired. You ask the receptionist if you can see Doctor Maheswaran, but he shakes his head. “I’m sorry, but I don’t think she’s here today. She left in the middle of her shift last night, and nobody has seen her since. Is there somebody else I can reach for you?”

Something is not right. None of this makes any sense. You are about to demand to see your sleeping companions when a blond-haired man with heavy bags under his eyes approaches you and places a hand on your shoulder.

“Good morning. We should talk.”

Æ In your Campaign Log, record Dr. Maheswaran is missing. Perhaps you could have saved her. The lead investigator suffers 1 mental trauma.

Æ In your Campaign Log, record Randolph escaped the hospital on his own. Any one investigator may choose to add Randolph Carter (Chained to the Waking World) (The Dream-Eaters card #79) to their deck. This card does not count toward that investigator’s deck size.

Æ Proceed to Resolution 5.
Resolution 5: You depart from the hospital with the blond-haired man in tow, and he introduces himself more fully. The man, whose name is Randolph Carter, tells you that he is a “dreamer,” like Virgil Gray and your friends: one with the ability to traverse the divide between the waking world and a parallel dimension that was created by, is sustained by, and dwells within the dreams of all living organisms on Earth—a realm he calls The Dreamlands. “It is a place of both dreams and nightmares,” he explains. “And I’m afraid your friends are trapped there as we speak.”

You ask if there is anything you can do to aid them. Randolph ponders this for a moment, then replies: “Normally, dreamers can return to the real world simply by willing themselves awake, but for some reason, your friends are unable to do so. If you truly wish to help them, you too must enter the Dreamlands and find them. But forcing your way into the Dreamlands is not easy. Such paths are usually accessible only to experienced dreamers, and only in sleep. Still, there are some places where the Dreamlands touch the waking world, and in those places, with the right tools, you may enter the Dreamlands in your physical body. I know of such a place, not far from here. However—”

Before Randolph is able to finish his sentence, he is interrupted by a mysterious voice...

Æ Each investigator earns experience equal to the Victory X value of each card in the victory display.

Æ Remove the infestation bag and all infestation tokens from the game. (There is no need to keep or record them.)

Æ If you are playing The Dream-Quest and The Web of Dreams as an interconnected campaign, or if you are playing The Dream-Quest (Campaign A) by itself: Proceed to The Black Cat 1.

Æ If you are playing The Web of Dreams (Campaign B) by itself: Skip to The Black Cat 3.

The Black Cat 1: Following scenario 1–A, the dreamers travel beyond the Enchanted Woods...

As you travel out of the Enchanted Woods, you pass through rolling green meadows under a bright-blue, cloudless sky. You speak with the blond-haired man—who introduces himself as Randolph Carter—for several hours along your journey south. You pass through a town Randolph calls Nir and over a stone bridge spanning a wide river. Since the man seems friendly and knowledgeable about both your world and this one, you explain to him your situation: that you had followed the writings of a man named Virgil Gray to reach this strange land, in order to see for yourself the truth of his story. “There is a place in Ulthar where you may yet meet this man for yourself,” Randolph responds. “When we reach Ulthar, I will show you.”

The town of Ulthar is not quite what you had imagined. The border of the town is marked by a cobblestone road separating its quaint cottages from the rolling green meadows beyond. Inside the town, narrow cobbled streets are filled almost to capacity with cats of all kinds and colors, which part as you approach. Old peaked roofs and overhanging upper stories arch over the hilly streets; the entire village seems a haphazard cluster of homes and old-fashioned businesses. As you reach the town square near the center of the village, Randolph stops and addresses you with a youthful smile. “Welcome to Ulthar,” he proclaims. “As I mentioned before, you are quite safe here. There is but one paramount law to keep in mind as you traverse this place: in the town of Ulthar, no one may kill a cat.” Given how utterly packed the streets are with cats, you wonder aloud if this is indeed a town run by cats. “Not quite,” Randolph replies, pondering your words, “though I suppose one might call it the center of cat society here in the Dreamlands. The reason for that law’s existence is a story for another time. First, come—I have a feeling we’ll find this ‘Virgil’ fellow you speak of at Einar’s.”

Randolph leads you through the town square, which is surrounded by buildings adorned with cat motifs in the form of statues, signs, and even stained-glass windows. You eventually arrive at one such building bearing a sign that reads “Einar’s Place.” Inside is a medieval-style tavern filled with long wooden tables. You spot several patrons and three times as many cats. One such patron at the wooden counter feeds one of the cats small strips of dried meat. He is a handsome man in his early thirties, with short dark hair, a strong jaw, and sharp cheekbones. You recognize him instantly as the writer Virgil Gray. In the back of your mind, you wonder if this chance meeting is merely an act of fortune or something preordained, for good or for ill.

Regardless, you approach the man and introduce yourself, along with Randolph. Virgil shakes your hand and Randolph’s with a joyful smile. “Well met, fellow dreamers!” the writer says, a hint of boyish excitement in his voice. “It is wonderful to meet more fellow believers. I had become so sick and tired of reading about my supposed ‘illness’ in the papers.”

You nod your head in agreement and inform Virgil that you intend to find some proof of this discovery to bring back to the waking world. “Don’t you think I tried that?” he replies, stymied. “Sadly, it is impossible for one who is asleep to bring anything from this realm into the real world. This is all imagination, you see. Ideas, concepts, fantasies. You cannot hold a thought in your hands, can you?”

Randolph interjects. “There is a place within the Dreamlands that may hold the proof you seek. I have seen it in my dreams. I visited there three times, each time just a fleeting moment before I was snatched away by the rising sun… but try as I might, I cannot find the way again. I have spent many nights searching.”

“Oh?” Virgil asks, intrigued. “And what is this place?”

“It is a marvelous city,” he describes, his eyes aglow with wonder, “golden and lovely like nothing I have seen before or since. A city beyond the peaks of the unknown mountain Kadath, where no one has ever set foot before. There, veiled within the clouds and crowned by stars, lies the onyx castle of the Great Ones.”

Virgil idly pets the cat on the countertop next to him as he is absorbed by Randolph’s tale. It is a slender creature with lustrous black fur, dark as the void of space itself. “Then we must find this place! Even if it does not have the proof we seek, it sounds like the adventure of a lifetime. Enough to fill a hundred pages, or more!”

You tell Virgil and Randolph that before you commit to such an adventure, you must return to the waking world and tell your companions about your experiences. Just then, another voice, cryptic and quiet, chimes: “Oh, you can’t wake up. The eye is upon you now.”

You and the others spin your heads around, searching for the source of the voice. The barkeeper? Another patron? Then Virgil’s black cat stretches and sits up, its piercing yellow eyes reflecting the light of the sun through the window outside. “I have waited a long time for you to seek Kadath,” it says.

“You can talk?” Virgil says, nearly toppling over his stool as he jumps in surprise. “I’m a cat, you dolt. Of course I can talk,” the black cat replies, licking its paw out of boredom. “You have met a thousand cats from Ulthar, and now you are surprised?”

“But… I thought… ” Virgil wipes his brow with his palm.

“Never mind him,” the black cat says, addressing you directly. “I assure you, you cannot cross back into the waking world until you find Kadath. It is your only way out. In the meantime, I will return and tell your companions about the quest ahead of you.” It hops off of the countertop and walks confidently toward the exit. “Though I imagine their task will be even more arduous… ”

Æ If you are playing both The Dream-Quest and The Web of Dreams as interconnected campaigns: Proceed to The Black Cat 2.

Æ Otherwise, the enigmatic cat vanishes out the door before you get the chance to respond. Proceed to Scenario 2–A: The Search for Kadath.

The Black Cat 2: “What shall I tell your friends in the waking world?”

Æ The lead investigator must decide (choose one):

= Tell your companions of your quest, your plight, and your peril. The black cat will return to you once this message is delivered. This may put an undue burden on your companions. In the Campaign Log for The Dream-Quest (Campaign A), record the black cat delivered news of your plight.

= Tell your companions about your new friends and about the Dreamlands. In the Campaign Log for The Dream-Quest (Campaign A), record the black cat shared knowledge of the Dreamlands.

= Tell your companions that they are in danger, and that you are safe. The black cat will stay with them once this message is delivered. This might make your quest a little more difficult. In the Campaign Log for The Dream-Quest (Campaign A), record the black cat warned the others.

= You don’t trust this creature one bit. You threaten the black cat, warning it not to approach your friends under any circumstance. The black cat yawns and vanishes out the door. In the Campaign Log for The Dream-Quest (Campaign A), record okay, fine, have it your way then.

Æ Proceed to The Black Cat 3.
The Black Cat 3: Following scenario 1–B, the investigators are confronted outside St. Mary’s Hospital...

"... You must be their friends," the enigmatic voice says from above. To your surprise, the quiet voice belongs not to a person, but to a black cat that lounges lazily across a tree branch hanging over the path outside the hospital. “Oh, pick your jaws up off the ground and listen.” The cat rises and leaps onto the top of a nearby fence, walking along it with the kind of grace only cats possess.

“It is one of the cats of Earth’s Dreamlands,” Randolph proclaims, his voice tinged with merriment, like he was meeting an old friend for the first time in ages. “How long it has been since I have spoken with one of your kind!”

The cat’s piercing yellow eyes glare at Randolph for a moment before it returns its gaze to you. "... Sure. In any event, I bear a message from your dreaming friends.”

Check the Campaign Log for The Dream-Quest (Campaign A). Choose and read the section below that applies to your situation.

If you are playing The Web of Dreams (Campaign B) by itself, and there is no Campaign Log for The Dream-Quest:

"Your friends are not the only ones in trouble," the black cat explains. “There’s a grand conspiracy at work here, and your friends are... well, let’s just say they’re a bit preoccupied with their own problems at the moment. You’re the only ones who can destroy the great web. Forget about your companions and descend into the pitch. It’s the only way. I’ll try to keep your friends safe while you fulfill your task. Do you understand?"

In your Campaign Log, record you are on your own.

If the black cat delivered news of your plight:

“So, your pals aren’t looking too good. They wanted me to tell you that they’re in a lot of trouble. They can’t wake up until they fulfill this quest, and it’s not going to be easy. The eye of chaos is watching them. You’ve got your work cut out for you, but you also might be their only hope.” The black cat hops down from the fence and starts to walk away. “Now, if you’ll excuse me, I’d better get back to your friends before they all get themselves killed.”

In the Campaign Log for The Dream-Quest (Campaign A), record the black cat is at your side. Add 1 token to the chaos bags for both campaigns.

If the black cat warned the others:

“Your friends told me to tell you that they’re fine. In fact, they told me to warn you that you’re the ones in real danger. I’d believe them if I were you. There’s a grand conspiracy at work here, and you’re the only ones who can stop it. The best thing you can do is forge onward, for both your sakes. Don’t worry, I’ll stick around for a while. Someone’s gotta keep you alive.”

In the Campaign Log for The Web of Dreams (Campaign B), record the black cat is at your side. Add 1 token to the chaos bags for both campaigns.

If okay, fine, have it your way then:

“Nah, you know what? Forget about it. I’m sure you’ll be fine.” The black cat suddenly leaves without another word.

In both Campaign Logs, record you asked for it.

If the black cat shared knowledge of the Dreamlands:

The black cat tells you all about the Dreamlands and about the quest your friends are about to embark upon. “Your friends are in a safe place in the Dreamlands, along with a couple of others. My pet human, Virgil, is one of them. Yes, that Virgil. I see the looks on your faces. They’re also with another dreamer, a man named... hey, wait a minute.” The cat glares suspiciously at Randolph, then yawns. “Huh. You know what? Never mind. I have to check on something.” With that, the cat suddenly departs.

In both Campaign Logs, record the black cat has a hunch.

Once the relevant entry has been read:
AE If you are playing both The Dream-Quest and The Web of Dreams as interconnected campaigns: Proceed to either Scenario 2–A: The Search for Kadath, or Scenario 2–B: A Thousand Shapes of Horror.

AE Otherwise, proceed to Scenario 2–B: A Thousand Shapes of Horror.
The Dream-Quest

Campaign Log

Investigators

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Player Name</th>
<th>Investigator</th>
<th>Unspent Experience</th>
<th>Trauma (Physical)</th>
<th>Trauma (Mental)</th>
<th>Earned Story Assets/Weaknesses</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

Evidence of Kadath

- Campaign Notes
- Tab. XXXIV.
- Chaos Bag

- Killed and Insane Investigators
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>PLAYER NAME</th>
<th>PLAYER NAME</th>
<th>PLAYER NAME</th>
<th>PLAYER NAME</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>INVESTIGATOR</td>
<td>INVESTIGATOR</td>
<td>INVESTIGATOR</td>
<td>INVESTIGATOR</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>UNSPENT EXPERIENCE</td>
<td>UNSPENT EXPERIENCE</td>
<td>UNSPENT EXPERIENCE</td>
<td>UNSPENT EXPERIENCE</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>TRAUMA (Physical)</td>
<td>TRAUMA (Physical)</td>
<td>TRAUMA (Physical)</td>
<td>TRAUMA (Physical)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(Mental)</td>
<td>(Mental)</td>
<td>(Mental)</td>
<td>(Mental)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>EARNED STORY ASSETS/WEAKNESSES</td>
<td>EARNED STORY ASSETS/WEAKNESSES</td>
<td>EARNED STORY ASSETS/WEAKNESSES</td>
<td>EARNED STORY ASSETS/WEAKNESSES</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

- Prologue
- Waking Nightmare
- The Black Cat
- A Thousand Shapes of Horror
- The Oneironauts
- Point of No Return
- The Great Ones
- Weaver of the Cosmos
- Epilogue

Permission granted to photocopy for personal use only. © 2019 FFG.
Campaign Log also available for download at www.fantasyflightgames.com
What's Next?

While each of the scenarios in The Dream-Eaters cycle can be played in Standalone Mode, they can also be combined to form a full eight-part campaign or two separate four-part campaigns. The next scenario in The Dream-Quest campaign can be found in The Search for Kadath Mythos Pack, while the next scenario in The Web of Dreams campaign can be found in The Thousand Shapes of Horror Mythos Pack.

Credits

Expansion Design and Development: Matthew Newman

Producer: Calli Oliverius

Editing: B.D. Flory

Proofreading: Jeremiah J. Shaw and Christine C. Rabb

Card Game Manager: Mercedes Opheim

Arkham Horror Story Review: Dane Beltrami and Kara Centell-Dunk

Expansion Graphic Design: Neal W. Rasmussen

Graphic Design Coordinator: Joseph D. Olson

Graphic Design Manager: Christopher Hosch

Cover Art: Cristi Balanescu

Art Direction: Jeff Lee Johnson

Managing Art Director: Tony Bradt

Quality Assurance Coordinator: Andrew Janeba and Zach Tewalthomas

Production Management: Jason Glawe and Dylan Tierney

Visual Creative Director: Brian Schomburg

Senior Project Manager: John Franz-Wichlacz

Senior Manager of Product Development: Chris Gerber

Executive Game Designer: Corey Konieczka

Head of Studio: Andrew Navaro

Playtesters:

Special thanks to all of our beta testers.

Frequently Asked Questions

Can Patrice Hathaway’s ability cause her to discard hidden encounter cards from her hand?

No. Hidden cards cannot be discarded from hand by any means except for those described on the card.

If a card has 0 cost or no cost, is its cost even or odd?

Zero is an even number. Skill cards and cards with a “–” cost do not have a cost (it is neither even nor odd).

Can tokens (like Tony Morgan’s bounties) be placed on swarm cards?

Yes. Each swarm card counts as a separate copy of its host card and can have its own tokens on it.

For Mandy’s reaction, what does it mean to “resolve 1 additional target of the search?”

Search effects typically instruct you to resolve an effect using the card(s) targeted by the search. For example, if you used another effect to “search the top 3 cards of your deck for a card and draw it,” drawing the searched-for card would be resolving the target of the search. If you used Mandy’s reaction here, you could either search the top 6 cards for a card and draw it, or search the top 3 cards for 2 cards and draw both. (You must decide before beginning the search.)